

247tickets.com

247tickets Community Manager

Reporting to Director of Communications, a 247tickets Community Manager is the face of 247tickets, representing our brand, managing communications with 247tickets customers (potential & existing), creating the 247 community via events and interactions on WeChat.

This digital-savvy event lover is responsible for building various 247 communities in their city. They're amazing at PR, social media, events and networking.

A community manager must hold a minimum of 2 evening event gatherings per month (these should always be based around 247tickets events). They must be a social person who is happy to go to numerous events and networking nights as an ambassador of 247tickets.

Most importantly, a 247tickets community manager will focus on maintaining our current and creating more and more WeChat groups and communities. You will organize groups to join you to events, help to promote events for 247tickets and help to keep our groups as social as possible.

The Community Manager is responsible for:

- Events and event planning – planning or supporting the planning of meetups for the city community, making sure they meet our standards and are interesting to our demographic
- Event Promotion – working with the marketing team to promote community meet-ups as well as sell tickets for events that are relevant to the various communities
- Event hosting - Either hosting or supporting the 247tickets marketing team
- Social media – work with the marketing team to help grow 247tickets WeChat presence
- Content creation – work with the marketing team on content for your events

The community manager position is salaried but will also receive commission on all ticket sales made.

247tickets.com

This position is perfect for someone with a marketing background, or just someone who loves building their network, loves events and lives to socialize!